Every number of the Scientific American Science is calculated to advance.

Every number of the Scientific American contains sixteen pages of reading matter, abundantly illustrated with from eight to ten Engantena and of which are expressly sugraised for this publication.

All the most valuable patentied discoveries are delineated and described it its issues, so that, as respects inventions, it may be justly regarded as an illustrated Repertary, where the inventor may learn what has been done beforehim in the same field which he is exploring and where he may bring to the world a knowledge of his own achievements.

Beports of American Patents granted are also published every week, including Official Copies of all the Payers Clauses. These Patent Chains are fornished from the Patent Office Records expressly for this paper, and published in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN in cursuacy of all other publications. The contributors to the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN are among the most endinent scientific and practical men of the fines. The editorial department is universally acknowledged to be conducted with great ability and to be distinguished not only for the excellence and truthfalmes of its discussions out for the fearlences with which error is combated and false theories are exploided.
